FESTIVALS AUSTRALIA

ROUND 13 NOW OPEN FOR APPLICATIONS

The Office of the Arts are pleased to announce that Round 13 of the Festivals Australia funding program is now open for applications for projects commencing from 1 February 2022. Regional artists, arts workers, and organisations can apply for arts and cultural projects that encourage community participation and audience engagement from people living in regional and remote communities in a festival or community celebration.

An additional $2.4 million, announced as part of the Regional Arts Tourism package, is available in this funding round. Also new in this round is that up to three discrete projects can be funded per organisation, per festival. Separate applications for each project must be submitted and each one will be assessed independently. The funding round will close on Wednesday 29 September 2021 at 23.59 (Midnight) AEST (Canberra local time).

2/3 Science Week

Mince is an amazing product that is very versatile and can be used in many different types of dishes all around the world. We researched where mince comes from, how it is made and what we can do with it. We are looking forward to cooking and enjoying a delicious and nutritious Spaghetti Bolognese on our camp.

My favourite mince meal is tacos but I know that you can also use mince in lasagne, burritos, bayo buns, sausages, dim sims, burgers, sausage rolls and heaps of other dishes. Kruze

I love bayo buns for the fluffy dough, juicy mince and sticky sour sauce. Otis

I've used a mincer before to make sausages, it was lots of fun. Kaydee

Chickens, sheep, pigs, deer and cows can all be used to make mince. Lily

We eat red meat because it gives us a range of nutrients including iron, zinc, omega 3, protein, B vitamins, selenium and vitamin D. Gemma.

Mince is produced using a machine called a mincer. In the factory they use x-ray technology to identify bones or plastic before it is ground and mixed gently. The meat is then weighed and shaped into a block before being packaged, labelled and sent to the supermarket. Talara

There are also negatives to eating red meat and these include having to put down animals just for us to eat. Cattle also need a lot of space and eat lots of grass or grains. They also contribute more greenhouse gases than cars. Elke

Making Butter From Cream in Different Ways

8/9 - Stained Glass Artwork

This term we have been investigating the history of glass and looking at different artworks so that students can create their own stained glass artwork. A huge thank you to Sandy Patterson who has been providing her ongoing support to students and myself learning new skills and techniques. Students have been practicing their new skills and creating a small design piece before working on their own creations. Students are very excited that they have been provided with the opportunity to try a new form of art. Thankyou also to the Governing Council who have provided us with some extra funding to purchase specialised tools and materials. The students are looking forward to sharing their final products with you next term.
